

PRODUCT VISION & REQUIREMENTS

Femi9

Organic period care that feels like nothing at all — and a platform that lets a woman shop it, care for herself with it, belong to it, and even earn from it.

DOCUMENT	Product PRD (the what & the why)
PRODUCT	Femi9 — organic sanitary pads & period-care platform
MARKET	India-first · D2C · Tamil Nadu → national
VERSION	v1.0
DATE	19 July 2026

This is the product PRD — the ideology, the users, and the full end-to-end experience. The companion Backend PRD covers the technical architecture that delivers it.

Contents

- | | | | |
|---|--------------------------------------|----|------------------------------------|
| 1 | The ideology — why Femi9 exists | 7 | The e-commerce engine (end to end) |
| 2 | The problem we're solving | 8 | The customer journey |
| 3 | Our answer — the product | 9 | How the business works |
| 4 | The thesis — a period-care ecosystem | 10 | Why we win (differentiators) |
| 5 | Who it's for (the users) | 11 | What success looks like |
| 6 | The six product pillars | 12 | Where we are & what's next |

1 The ideology — why Femi9 exists

"A period should never cost a woman her health, her comfort, or her confidence. Care that touches her body should be as honest as she is."

Femi9 exists on a simple conviction: the most intimate product a woman uses every month should be the safest, kindest thing she owns — not a bundle of plastic and undisclosed chemicals she was taught to hide. We make ultra-thin, breathable, organic-cotton sanitary pads with a mood-lifting anion comfort strip — toxin-free, biodegradable, and built for real Indian life.

But the pad is only the beginning. Our deeper belief is that period care has been under-served on three fronts at once: the product is unsafe, the experience is shameful, and the woman is treated only as a buyer. Femi9's ideology is to fix all three:

- Honest by design. Organic cotton, no toxins, no chlorine, biodegradable. What touches her skin is always breathable cotton.
- Shame-free by default. We talk about periods plainly and warmly — no blue liquid, no whispering. A period is normal; our brand acts like it.
- Woman-first, not buyer-first. She is a person we care for (track her cycle, support her), a community she belongs to, and — if she wants — an entrepreneur who earns with us.

In one line: Femi9 turns a monthly necessity into an act of self-care, community, and even income — starting with a pad you can trust.

2 The problem we're solving

India buys billions of pads a year, yet the everyday experience is quietly failing women.

The pain	What it means for her
Plastic & toxins	Most mainstream pads are ~90% plastic with undisclosed chemicals, gels and fragrances — rashes, irritation, and long-term health worry, right against the most sensitive skin.
Discomfort	Thick, sweaty, non-breathable pads that announce themselves. "Comfort" is an afterthought.
Shame & silence	Periods are still wrapped in black bags and hushed tones. Buying is awkward; talking about it, more so.
Access & trust	Good organic options are city-boutique and expensive; small-town buyers rely on WhatsApp, word-of-mouth, and a shopkeeper's recommendation.
No relationship	Brands sell a pack and vanish. Nobody helps her understand her cycle, reorder before she runs out, or feel part of anything.
The planet	Every non-biodegradable pad outlives her by centuries. Conscious buyers feel the guilt with no easy alternative.

These aren't six separate problems — they're one gap: period care that is safe, comfortable, dignified, accessible, ongoing, and sustainable, all at once. That gap is Femi9's opportunity.

3 Our answer — the product

The physical product

Ultra-thin, breathable, certified-organic-cotton pads with an anion comfort strip — and reusable period panties for those who want them. A focused line, sold the way India buys.

Product	Format	For
330mm Double Wings	Pads · 3 / 6 / 9 packs	Heavy · overnight security
330mm Centre Wings	Pads · 3 / 6 / 9 packs	Heavy nights, wider back
290mm Large	Pads · 3 / 6 / 9 packs	Regular, everyday
290mm Starter	Pads · trial 3-pack	First try / low commitment
Period Panties	Reusable · sizes S–XL	Leak-proof, wash & reuse (up to 40 washes)

What makes the pad itself different: organic cotton top sheet (breathable, dry, gentle), a biodegradable core, an anion strip that helps with odour and comfort through the day, and a thinness that feels like "nothing at all." Toxin-free and chlorine-free throughout.

The digital product

Around the pad, Femi9 is a platform: a storefront, a personal cycle companion, a community, a loyalty program, and two income programs — all run from a single operations console. The rest of this document is about that platform.

4 The thesis — a period-care ecosystem, not a pad shop

Anyone can sell a pad. Femi9's edge is the loop around it.

A pure D2C pad brand competes only on product and price. Femi9's thesis is that the same woman can play four roles, and each one deepens the next — a flywheel a commodity brand can't copy:

Each turn of the loop lifts retention and lowers the cost of the next customer: a woman who tracks her cycle reorders on time; a woman with points comes back; a woman in the community trusts us more; a reseller brings ten neighbours. Product sells the first pack; the ecosystem sells the next hundred.

5 Who it's for — the users

Femi9 serves four kinds of people. The magic is that the same woman can be more than one.

PRIMARY · THE SHOPPER

Tavia — the customer

A young Indian woman who wants a pad that's safe and comfortable, buys online or via WhatsApp, cares about ingredients and the planet, and would love to just not run out. She tracks her cycle on her phone and trusts what her friends recommend.

GROWTH · THE ADVOCATE

Meera — the creator / affiliate

A student or micro-influencer who already talks about wellness. She applies, gets a personal code, shares Femi9, and earns commission on every order her audience places.

DISTRIBUTION · THE ENTREPRENEUR

Lakshmi — the partner / reseller

A homemaker or small-town woman who sells to her neighbourhood door-to-door and on WhatsApp. Femi9 is her income and her independence; we onboard and support her.

OPERATOR · THE BUSINESS

Aravind & team — Ops / Admin

Runs the whole shop from one console: catalogue, inventory, orders, customers, content, coupons, moderation, creators, resellers, and analytics — no engineer required.

Why this matters: Femi9 isn't a funnel with one exit (buy). It's a platform where a first-time buyer can become a rewarded regular, a subscriber, a community voice, and eventually an earner — all inside the same product.

6 The six product pillars

Everything Femi9 does maps to six pillars. Together they are the ecosystem.

PILLAR 1 · BUY

The Shop

Browse a clean, honest storefront; pick a product and its pack size (or panty size); choose one-time or Subscribe & Save 15%; add to a bag that remembers her; check out with UPI / card (or order on WhatsApp); get an order confirmation. Real inventory, real orders.

PILLAR 2 · CARE

Cycle tracking & wellness

A private dashboard where she logs her period and symptoms and gets predictions — next period, cycle day, fertile and PMS windows — so she's never caught off guard, and Femi9 can nudge a reorder before she runs out. Care that earns the relationship.

PILLAR 3 · BELONG

Community & content

The Periods Wall — real stories and reviews from real women (anonymous if she likes), moderated for safety — plus an editorial Journal that talks about cycles, comfort, skin and sustainability without shame. Trust, built by peers.

PILLAR 4 · REWARD

Bloom loyalty

Every order earns Bloom points; reviews, referrals and profile completion earn more. Points redeem for real discounts. A reason to come back that compounds with every purchase.

PILLAR 5 · EARN

Creators & resellers

Two income programs: Affiliates (creators get a code, share it, earn commission with real click-and-order tracking) and Partners (women resellers apply, get onboarded, and sell in their community). Growth powered by the women we serve.

PILLAR 6 · RUN

The Ops console (Admin)

One backend to run it all — catalogue & variants, inventory, orders & refunds, subscriptions, customers, coupons, editable business rules, blog CMS, review/community moderation, affiliate approvals & payouts, partner CRM, and live analytics (revenue, demand, geography).

7 The e-commerce engine — end to end

How a sale actually works, from a woman's tap to the money in the bank and the box at her door.

Stage	What happens
Catalogue	Products with variants — pads by pack (3/6/9), panties by size (S–XL) — each with its own price and stock. Managed entirely from admin; new products go live instantly.
Pricing	Per-variant prices, a free-shipping threshold , and Subscribe & Save 15% — all editable business rules, not hardcoded.
Cart	Variant-aware and server-saved: it survives a refresh and follows her to checkout. Prices are always recomputed server-side (never trusted from the browser).
Checkout	Shipping details, a live order summary (subtotal + shipping + total), and one tap to place the order. A guest becomes a customer record automatically.
Payment	Razorpay — UPI, cards, netbanking (India-first) — with signature-verified, idempotent capture and a webhook as the source of truth. WhatsApp order is kept as the secondary path that matches how India already buys.
Order & inventory	A real order is created, stock is decremented atomically (no overselling), and it appears in the admin Orders console. Loyalty points are awarded on payment.
Subscriptions	Subscribe & Save creates a recurring plan (every cycle / 4 / 6 weeks) that generates the next order automatically — she never runs out; we get predictable revenue.
Post-purchase	Order confirmation, Bloom points, order history in her account, the option to review, and a smart reorder nudge tied to her cycle. Refunds (if needed) restore stock and reverse points cleanly.
Ops behind it	Admin manages coupons, order statuses, refunds, inventory, and settings; the dashboard shows revenue, orders, top products, and where customers are (geography) — all from real data.

8 The customer journey — a day in Tavia's life

1. Discovers Femi9 through a friend's WhatsApp or a creator's post (Meera's code).
2. Browses the storefront, reads honest copy, opens "330mm Double Wings", picks the 9-pack.
3. Chooses Subscribe & Save so she never runs out — 15% off, cancel anytime.
4. Signs in with her phone (a one-tap OTP), checks out, pays by UPI.
5. Gets confirmation + earns Bloom points; her order is now in the system.
6. Opens her dashboard, logs her period; sees her next-period prediction.
7. Reads the Periods Wall, shares her own story, leaves a review.
8. Comes back before her next cycle (or her subscription just ships); redeems points for a discount.
9. Loves it enough to apply as a creator — gets a code, shares Femi9, earns.

One product; nine touchpoints; a relationship instead of a transaction. Every step is live in the platform today.

9 How the business works

Revenue engine	How it grows
Direct D2C sales	Storefront orders (UPI/card/WhatsApp). The core, with healthy organic-premium margins.
Subscriptions (LTV)	Subscribe & Save turns one-time buyers into recurring revenue and predictable demand — the single biggest lever on lifetime value and retention.
Reseller network	Partner women extend distribution into towns and neighbourhoods D2C can't cheaply reach — and become a livelihood, aligning growth with mission.
Creator affiliates	Performance marketing that pays only on results — trackable codes, attributed orders, commission & payouts run from admin.
Loyalty (retention)	Bloom points lower churn and raise repeat rate; the cheapest growth is the customer who never leaves.

Unit-economics story: acquire once (via creators/resellers/community), then compound with subscriptions + loyalty + cycle-timed reorders. The ecosystem is designed to push lifetime value up and repeat acquisition cost down.

10 Why we win — the differentiators

Edge	Why it's hard to copy
Honest organic product + anion strip	A genuinely better, safer, thinner pad — the credible foundation everything else stands on.
Ecosystem flywheel	Shop + Care + Community + Rewards + Income in one product. A commodity brand can match a pad; it can't easily match the loop.
Cycle-timed relationship	We know when she'll need the next pack and can be there first. Reorders become effortless.
Women-powered distribution	Resellers + creators = growth that is also the mission. Buyers become believers become sellers.
India-native	UPI + WhatsApp + regional resellers + shame-free tone, built for how India actually shops and talks — not a Western template.
Operator-owned	A non-technical team runs the entire business — catalogue, content, pricing, programs — from one console, changing anything without a developer.

11 What success looks like

Pillar	The metric that proves it
Buy	Conversion rate, average order value, orders / month
Care	% of customers logging cycles; reorder-on-time rate
Belong	Wall posts & reviews per active customer; approval rate
Reward	% of orders from returning customers; points redeemed
Earn	Active creators/resellers; % of new orders attributed to them
Run	Time-to-list a product; orders fulfilled without a developer

North star: the share of revenue that is recurring and relationship-driven — subscriptions, loyalty repeats, and community/reseller/creator-sourced orders — versus one-off cold sales.

12 Where we are & what's next

All six pillars are built and working as a real system: the storefront, checkout & payments, the 13-module Ops console, cycle tracking, community, loyalty, and the creator & reseller programs — running on a real database with real orders, security-hardened and covered by automated tests.

State	Detail
✔ Built	Every pillar; the full e-commerce engine; the admin console; auth; subscriptions; growth programs.
✔ Hardened & tested	Security-reviewed and fixed; automated test suite green; production-ready architecture.
🔒 To go live	The account-gated steps: cloud deployment (AWS), and switching on the live payment/SMS/email providers & domain.
→ Grow	Turn on subscriptions at scale, recruit the first creators & resellers, and let the flywheel run.

The bottom line: Femi9 is not "a pad we also sell online." It's a period-care ecosystem — safe product at the centre, and a relationship of care, community, rewards and income around it — designed so every woman we serve makes the next woman cheaper to reach and easier to keep.